History: May 1945

12th Air Force, 57th Bombardment Wing

321st Bombardment Group

History: May 1945

The following is a compilation of the 321st Bomb Group's Headquarters and individual Squadron War Diaries. They have been transcribed word for word, from the Squadron Histories provided by the Air Force Historical Research Agency (AFHRA), Maxwell Air Force Base Alabama. At the end of each Squadron's daily entry, the individuals cited in the entry are identified by full name, rank and duty, in alphabetical order. The day's entry begins with the Tactical Operations Statement, from the United States Army Air Forces (USAAF) Chronology, for the Mediterranean Theater of Operations (MTO). The history also includes mission reports, mission crew rosters, Missing Air Crew Reports (MACR), personal mission logs, journals, and diaries made available by various sources.

Invitation

Anyone who has documentation pertaining to the 321st Bomb Group or its members, and would like to have it included in this history, is welcome to participate. Copies of: photos (official or personal); orders (promotion, decoration, travel, etc.); Mission Reports; Missing Air Crew Reports; personal diaries, logs, journals, etc; other documentation; or information that will help identify hi-lited individuals will be greatly appreciated, as one of my goals is correctly identify every man and plane assigned to the 321st Bomb Group.

My only interest in this project is to honor those who served by perpetuating their story, and making it available for future generations, particularly the families and friends of our Great Heroes. If you are interested in helping, or if I may be of assistance in finding information about your 321st BG Hero, please contact me at: Lil-Butch@nc.rr.com

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): During the night of 30 Apr/1 May A-20s and A-26s bomb targets of opportunity in N Italy; bad weather during the day cancels medium bomber operations; fighter-bombers destroy numerous motor and horse-drawn vehicles in NE Italy; US Fifth Army forces approach the Brenner Pass on the Austro-Italian border, while British Eighth Army elements make contact with Yugoslav troops of Marshal Tito near Monfalcone; the flight of the 5th Photographic Reconnaissance Squadron, 3rd Photographic Group (Reconnaissance), operating from Pisa with F-5s returns to base at Peretola Airfield, Florence.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: This is the day the Russian Army hopes to take over all of Berlin. The report that Hitler died at his post in Berlin, has been issued by Admiral Doenitz, who also announced that he has assumed the leadership of German resistance. However, other facts seem to deny both reports and it is suspected that it is merely a ruse to obscure Hitler's whereabouts. The Germans in the rest of Europe are reported to be negotiating for peace terms, but Gen. Montgomery is holding to his original terms of unconditional surrender, and advised the enemy that continued resistance is sheer stupidity. The mission for today was stood down.

445th BS War Diary: Training schedule maintained. Expectantly news of rumored peace.

445th BS: War Diary of: Lile, Keith B., S/Sgt, gunner:

"1 MARTEDI-TUESDAY

Stand-down on mission. Went out this afternoon. Flew my time for the month. Zieman was the pilot. There was 9 in the ship. Missions were cut down to 60 for a tour - effective immediately. T.S. I have 59 now. Turned in guns today. Scheduled to fly tomorrow AM at 2:45 - Heard from Mrs Hoobler & Ruby Miesenholder - wrote Carol Ann & Betty."

Zieman, Earl E., 1Lt, pilot

446th BS War Diary: Regular squadron duties are performed as the war draws to a close and we anticipate news of the end momentarily.

447th BS War Diary: No mission. Rumors are flying thick and fast as to whether there will be any more missions from here. Both the officer's and enlisted men's clubs are well on their way to completion and from all indications they will both be very nice. S/Sgt Elmer P. Dressler duty to DS to U.S., Ltr. Hq., 12th AF. F/O William T. Atkins appointed 2nd Lt., AUS, Ltr., Hq., 12th AF effective 1 May 1945.

Atkins, William T., 2Lt, bombardier

Dressler, Elmer P., S/Sgt, engineering

448th BS War Diary: The mission was called off due to adverse weather conditions. Corporal Mayer left for the United States on Rotation.

Mayer, Alfred M., Cpl, engineering

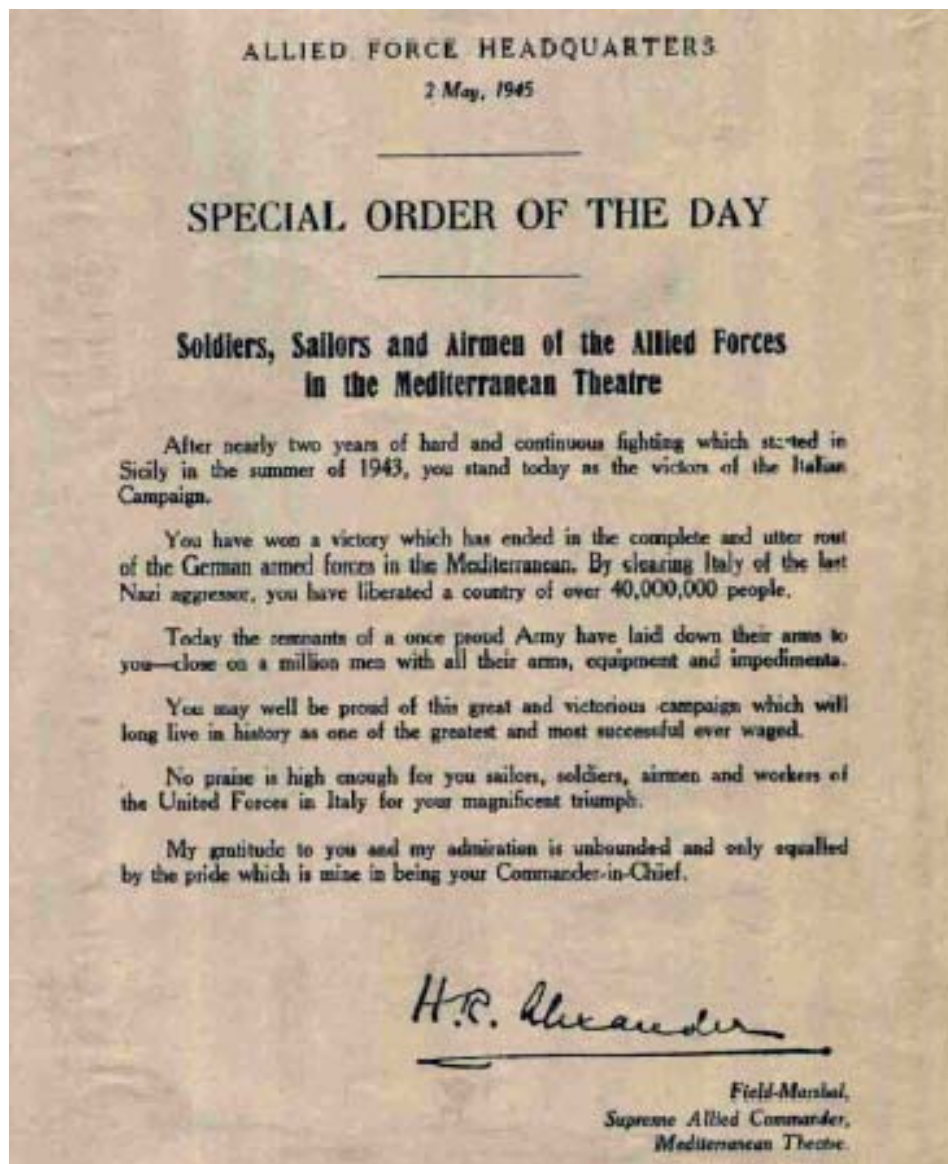

448th BS: War Diary of: Schaffer, Irving J., T/Sgt, radio-gunner:

“Sent $300 to #8. Cloudy day. Nothing special happening. War is all over in Italy. Just doesn't seem real to know the Brenner Pass is undefended. Used the inside of my sleeping bag for the first time. Saw "Summer Storm" at camp theater. Fair. No more missions to be flown.”

Wednesday, 2 May 1945

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): Bad weather continues; medium bombers are grounded while the XXII Tactical Air Command flies an uneventful armed reconnaissance in NE Italy.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The Germans have relinquished all claims to Berlin and mopping-up continues in all sectors, with isolated pockets of the once-proud enemy holding out. We had another stand-down today and it looks like the entire Wing has ceased combat operations. There is much scurrying around between here and the Wing headquarters and the required paper-work and packing away of group documents, is proceeding. All enlisted men have been ordered to turn in their carbines and pistols. Close checks are being made on all unauthorized flying-equipment and on clothing in excess of original issue.

445th BS: War Diary of: Seegmiller, Barnard H., Sgt, armament:

05/02/45: "Painfully, slowly, the war draws to a torturous end. Mussolini and Company are dead. This morning the German radio reports Hitler also dead. We flew what seems to be our last mission several days ago. Since then a mission has been scheduled every day, with a late briefing, the reason for which I think was mostly to keep the crews and men standing by just in case something came up. The Group is making preparations to move somewhere everyone hopes it will be home. Rumors abound, with new ones starting every day. Yesterday we turned in our rifles and today much of our excess equipment was picked up in a show down inspection. Our day off came yesterday and Rucker, Beasley, George and Farmer and I went into Ancona. Nothing unusual happened. It was May Day and the Labor party staged a demonstration at the war memorial monument which overlooks the sea. The setting was beautiful. We came home early and saw "Marriage is a Private Affair" with Lana Turner, at the group theater. I was induced to go, mostly by the fact that a card and crap game was raging in the barracks.

Tonight the radio made official mention of the fact I believe to have existed for several days. I refer to the unconditional surrender of German troops in Italy, effective today noon. The only thing that surprised me was that the surrender took place in the Royal Palace at Cisterna. I enjoy some satisfaction from the fact that our job is finished and is well done. For months we have hoisted bombs and sweat out missions hardly recognizing ours as a part in the war, but undoubtedly the story of Uncle Joe Cannon's 12th Air Force and its role of interdiction in preparation for the final 24 days of battle will be told again and again as a masterful example of the application of air power. "Operation Strangle" has been wonderfully successful. The BBC just finished its nightly program "War Report." Chester Wilmot interviewed German commentator, Gen. Kurt Dittman who stated for a fact the war can last but a few days longer. I have come almost to know BBC reporters; Godfrey Tolbert, Italy, Robert Doneta and Wilmot, Germany, Paul Winterton in Russia. I have often thought if I had grown up in a newspaper environment I would have been a reporter, sure."

Cavalenes, George P., S/Sgt, armament

Farmer, Alonzo (NMI), S/Sgt, armorer-gunner

Rucker, Elbert A., Sgt, armament

446th BS War Diary: Captains Hurley and Kimble return from temporary duty at 12th Air Force and a new Armament officer, Capt. Basore, arrives in the squadron.

Basore, Capt, Armament Officer

Hurley, John R., Capt, pilot

Kimble, Arnold P., Capt, pilot

447th BS War Diary: No mission. Cpl. David J. Dubin duty to DS pending assignment to 414th Night Fighter Squadron. Sgt. Salvatore L. Locascio assigned and joined from Hq., 19th Repl. Bn., par 3, SO 75, Hq., 321st Bomb. Gp.

Locascio, Salvatore L., Sgt, radio-gunner

Dubin, David J., Cpl, communications

Wednesday, 2 May 1945 (continued)

448th BS War Diary: Mission was again called off because of bad weather. It was announced this evening that all German armies in Italy had surrendered unconditionally to the Allies.

448th BS: War Diary of: Schaffer, Irving J., T/Sgt, radio-gunner:

"Although I constantly think of Mother's Day, I keep postponing my greetings. However I did send a gift. Bob Ederer and I took a stroll about the beach and British oil and fuel dump as well as their Marshalling Yards. Took photos. Watched Italian women rolling empty 50 gallon oil drums. Many were barefoot. The photos came out quite well. Sent a parcel to #19 of personal effects. I wonder if this parcel is recensored, if it will get by. Enjoying "War & Peace."

Ederer, Robert J., S/Sgt, gunner

Thursday, 3 May 1945

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): To assure that the enemy implements the surrender terms in Italy and to observe road activity, fighters fly reconnaissance missions over N Italy and SW Austria; medium bombers drop leaflets in several areas where enemy troops might be unaware of the surrender. The 121st Liaison Squadron, Twelfth AF (attached to Fifth Army), moves from Florence to Verona, Italy with L-4s and L-5s.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The Germans holding out in Norway, are expected to capitulate any hour, but certain groups in Czechoslovakia are putting up resistance. Things have let up so suddenly here, that for the first time it seems to realization that the War is over, has struck home. Personnel discuss the extent of time they will spend in the Pacific, rather than the possibility of going there. It seems that everyone will willingly take on another six months' tour of the Pacific, if they could only spend about 30 or 45 days at home. Special Services has started to show daily matinees to break the monotony of the day and good attendances are being box-officed. All of a sudden, a deluge of ancient movies has descended upon us. If they were only Class A or B, it wouldn't be bad, but they dug out some lulus like The Great Moment and Colt's Comrades. The current sensation, Lauren Bacall, hit the screen and started a controversy as to whether she's terrific or "coma si o com coma sa".

445th BS War Diary: Non-operational flights.

445th BS: War Diary of: Lile, Keith B., S/Sgt, gunner:

"3 GIOVEDI-THURSDAY

No mission, today as per usual. Not much going on. Worked out in the dark Room with Bromide paper. It turned out plenty good. Mixed Hypo and Developer today. Worked out there this afternoon and tonight also. Developed 19 rolls of film. 3 were mine. Printed quite a few too. Heard from Betty, Mom Hoobler, (2) Carol, Bernard & LeRoy, Presleniano - wrote Betty - 00:07AM"

446th BS War Diary: More routine days as premature rumors of peace keep coming from various sources.

447th BS War Diary: No mission. 1st Lt. Robert K. Murchland MIA to duty. Usual organizational duties.

Murchland, Robert K., 1Lt, pilot

448th BS War Diary: No mission was scheduled. Up to this date, the Group has flown 897 missions. The Group has not yet been declared non-operational.

448th BS: War Diary of: Schaffer, Irving J., T/Sgt, radio-gunner:

"Cloudy day. Stayed in the sack and read until noon. All local T (Training) canceled due to gas shortage. Brought beaucoup laundry to Falconara so as to have all clean clothes on leaving for home."

Friday, 4 May 1945

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): The XXII Tactical Air Command continues flying visual reconnaissance during the night and day in N Italy; the US 85th Infantry Division reaches the Austrian border near San Candido and pushes on to the Brenner Pass at Vipiteno without opposition.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The weather has been nice and the Red Cross instituted the practice of serving coffee-and-doughnuts at 10:00 a.m., which serves as a late-breakfast for the fellows who don't get up for morning chow, and as a breather for those who can't hold out until noon chow. For awhile, we were "sweating out" another mission or two, but it seems that Wing has forgotten about us wanting to hit Number 900. The Germans are still putting up scattered resistance in Czechoslovakia, but that's too far out of range for our bombers.

446th BS War Diary: More routine days as premature rumors of peace keep coming from various sources.

Saturday, 5 May 1945

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): XXII Tactical Air Command fighters continue reconnaissance flights over N Italy, SW Austria, and as far N as Munich, Germany; fighters destroy numerous aircraft at an airfield SE of Munich.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: No mission for today, per usual. Some 10 fellows from Group headquarters and about 40 from the four squadrons, were alerted for TD to the United States. There are quite a few Navy men around the post and that gives rise to a new batch of rumors. Some say they are here to take back the group, but the truth of the matter, is that they came in on merchant vessels at Ancona and someone must have put an "X" on our gate. It seems we're feeding them gratis and treating them royally, which is a contrast to the treatment the Navy gave us on the way over here. We'll see if it has any influence on our conditions when they carry us to the Pacific. The rest of the Italian army surrendered at 0800 today and it sure is a good feeling, although it comes as a bit of an anti-climax.

445th BS War Diary: Sgts. Haynes and Slodden rotated to U.S. after completion of tour.
Haynes, Irving L., Sgt, armorer-gunner
Slodden, Henry M., S/Sgt, gunner

445th BS: War Diary of: Lile, Keith B., S/Sgt, gunner:
"5 SABATO-SATURDAY

446th BS War Diary: More routine days as premature rumors of peace keep coming from various sources.

447th BS War Diary: 1st Lt. Robert K. Murchland relieved of duty to DS pending asgmt. to 7th Repl. Depot for transshipment to U.S. combat rotation. Departed Ltr. Hq., 12th AF: Capt. Wendell E. Marchant, 1st Lt. Frederick J. Hiller, S/Sgt James H. Williams. Usual Organizational Duties.

"Flew local T for 2:20 min. Shot four landings. Basked in sun all PM. Feeling pretty good, although was quite nervous while flying. Boys returned from Cairo."

Sunday, 6 May 1945

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): Brigadier General Robert S Israel, Jr takes command of the XXII Tactical Air Command. Fighters fly reconnaissance over the French and Italian Alps.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Again, there was no mission scheduled for today and it looks like we've wound up our combat-tour. The rest of the German Armies opposing the 21st Army Group, Monty's men, have thrown in the sponge and it's now a case of who can get off the sinking ship of the Nazi-state, the faster. Reports are already coming in of how certain big-wheels never did believe in Hitler and only went along because they had to. There will be thousands of similar stories. The personnel who were alerted, left this morning and that, in the Army, is really being on the beam and highly unusual. The farewell celebrations are beginning to wear on the ones left behind, as a "stirrup-cup" with each "rotator" is really a task.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: No operations today and rumors are thicker than ever. Another large batch of specialists were alerted for redeployment, a vague term which has everyone guessing, and thinking. The German Armies in Austria have surrendered. The EM's Club is scheduled to open tonight and it seems to be one of those 'the mails must go through' affairs, as the colonel layed down the ultimatum that he wants to see it functioning. All that really was necessary to open it officially, was enough liquor; and that was pretty difficult to obtain.

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): Transports carry out evacuation and supply missions in S Europe. The 64th and 66th Fighter Squadrons, 57th Fighter Group, move from Villafranca di Verona to Grosseto, Italy with P-47s.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The big news today, was the presentation of the cluster to our Unit Citation Badge. Every squadron had its personnel duded up in Class A's. Gen. Knapp came down from Wing, to make the presentation for the sinking of the Strasbourg, La Galissonniere and Aurora in Toulon Harbor on August 18, 1944. Today, was also V-E Day, and all personnel was confined to the compound. It seems unfair, but there undoubtedly would be a lot of 'hell-raising' once this exuberant gang got out among the local eye-ties. As soon as it got dark enough, the service group and the RAF fellows joined our bunch in setting off flares. It looked like a hometown Fourth of July celebration, but it certainly would have confused a pilot who relied on signal-recognition. One of the limey sentries expressed the sentiments of all, when he said, 'We 'elped the bluddy infantry win the bluddy War and now the blokes confine us while they goes out a' celebratin'.

Knapp, Robert Duane, Brigadier General, pilot, 57th BW Commander

445th BS War Diary: Usual garrison duties.

445th BS: War Diary of: Lile, Keith B., S/Sgt, gunner:
"8 MARTEDI-TUESDAY
Worked in Darkroom"

446th BS War Diary: This is the day – Victory in Europe. The event was quietly received by everyone, quite a different reaction than we had anticipated for such an important day. Eleven enlisted personnel are promoted. News reaches the squadron of the death in Rome of Staff Sgt. Walter Brady, a combat engineer.

Brady, Walter (NMI), S/Sgt, engineer-gunner

447th BS War Diary: 1st Lt. Robert K. Murchland relieved of assignment. Radio announced that Prime Minister Churchill will announce V-D Day this afternoon – Everybody claiming the war is over. General Knapp presented unit citation for bombing of Toulon Harbor to 321st Bomb Group. Holiday declared and celebration was in order – Bar was opened in the afternoon and the evening was spent enjoying the flares that were fired in celebration of the end of the European War.

Knapp, Robert Duane, Brigadier General, pilot, 57th BW Commander
Murchland, Robert K., 1Lt, pilot

448th BS War Diary: It was revealed today that we had flown our last mission. A Cluster of our Unit Citation for the Toulon mission was presented to the Group in a formation this morning by Brigadier General Knapp. Some of the soldiers simultaneously fired signal flares into the sky tonight (the overseas version of fireworks)

Tuesday, 8 May 1945

and some excellent pictures of the results were made. Sergeant Sharp left for the United States.

Knapp, Robert Duane, Brigadier General, pilot, 57th BW Commander

Sharp, Russell L., Jr., S/Sgt, gunner

448th BS: War Diary of: Schaffer, Irving J., T/Sgt, radio-gunner:

“Still restricted to base. Doc Smith and his Mitchell-Airs played for one hour on base. Orchestra is composed of group musicians. Seems like the whole barracks is drunk. Ever since arrive at this base it's been impossible to retire before midnight.”

Smith, William C. "Doc", Capt, Flight Surgeon, 445th BS

Wednesday, 9 May 1945

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): With combat operations in S Europe at an end, transport aircraft continue supply and evacuation missions. The 447th Bombardment Squadron (Medium), 321st Bombardment Group (Medium), moves from Solenzara, Corsica to Falconara, Italy with B-25s. In late May 45, HQ 60th Troop Carrier Group and 10th, 11th, 12th and 28th Troop Carrier Squadrons begin a movement from Pomigliano, Italy to Waller Field, Trinidad with C-47s.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The camp is still under compound-restrictions until the morning-after effects wear off. There haven't been any reports of casualties in this locality. Heavy emphasis is being placed on the Instruction and Education Program, which is to go into effect shortly. We've all been polled as to our likes, education, army work, sports or recreation. Rumors are still rampant, but they seem to be on the down-grade. However; it's getting harder to pick up bets that this group will be home, that means the United States, before the end of summer. The point-system came into the limelight today, and the versions vary. Some of the S-1 'wheels' are slightly peeved at the news-release, but it's hard to remain secretive with hot poop like that on tap. It seems that every battle-participation star will be rated 5 points; every award and decoration, 5 points; every dependent, 5 points; and every month of service, 1 point, with 1 additional point for each month overseas.

05/09/45: "The war is ended and over. The celebration passed and almost everyone recovered. As soon as rumors that the surrender terms were complete were supported by some authority, a strict security guard was slapped on and no GI was allowed to leave his base. Many were much displeased, but it was a necessary action. We had a formation inside the compound and the group was presented its second Unit Citation by Gen. Knapp. Afterward we spent the day in games, etc. There was considerable drinking and some disorderliness. Some of us erected a badminton court on the roof of the barracks and have had several snappy sessions. The card games at the foot of my bed became so annoying as to be intolerable and to avoid trouble I moved out on to the patio. Tonight Rucker joined me. The last few days have been very warm and pleasant. There was a first class five dollar display of signal flares and ack-ack which kept the sky alight most all night on the day war was declared 'finni.'"

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Planes continue to be transferred out to the service group and that must indicate something in the wind. A source of information, advises that it means the group only wants to have its basic amount of equipment specified in the T/E, when we get ready to leave. There is considerable S-2 activity, with all intelligence personnel burning, destroying and shipping all types of documents. Some of the documents go to a place in Savannah, Ga., with one of those complicated military addresses. The Red Cross has installed colored beach-umbrellas over their outdoor tables and gave the post a country-club effect. Ye olde Sun-Tans were issued today together with the familiar Mosquito Netting, so that dispelled a lot of rumors.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Further transfer of planes to the service group, were frozen. The topic of the day, is redeployment and how it affects us. The main source of information is the local Stars & Stripes, which unfortunately doesn't arrive on schedule and usually piles in with four or five days' issues at once. The Stars & Stripes did straighten us out on the point-system; it's 1 point for each month's service, 1 for each month overseas, 5 for each major award and 12 for each child under 18 years of age. The Officers' Club is putting in its finishing swipes and from indications, they will have a restful and subdued atmosphere, except when a party is being 'thrown'. Trucks now run nightly to Ancona, on a shuttle-service and they have proved popular. Falconara is too small of a town to play host to the entire group, and Ancona has a few good bars and at least two movie-houses where there is always some sort of entertainment.

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): Large-scale redeployment of Twelfth AF units officially begins (although the first large movement to the ZI has earlier taken place on 12 Jan 45, followed by redeployment of various units to all the theaters). On 12 May, the Twelfth has 198 units assigned and 8 attached; by the end of May, 17 assigned units will be redeployed from the theater, 43 assigned service units disbanded (and personnel used to form 21 new service units), 9 assigned units transferred to other HQ in the theater, and 1 attached unit released-leaving 150 assigned and 7 attached units intact. The 12th Photographic Reconnaissance Squadron, 3rd Photographic Group (Reconnaissance) moves from Villafranca to Peretola Airfield, Florence, Italy with F-5s.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The morning news contained the announcement, that 85 is the critical point in determining eligibility for discharge, so the question today is how many points you have. The rub in the entire thing, is that if the Army deems one necessary, his points don't mean a thing. We learned today that unit censorship has been eliminated and it is now permissible to tell the folks back home where you are. There will still be base censorship, but the relaxation of rules will enable a lot of suppressed desires to be expressed. Without too much to do and a bright sun to boot, a lot of the sun-worshippers have begun acquiring a healthy look. It's relaxing to the eyes to look across the compound and see a mixture of epidermis, brilliantly colored shorts and swimming trunks instead of the familiar shade of OD's. Saturday night, and outside of a trip to Ancona or Falconara, there isn't much doing.

05/12/45: "On the 10th, we (Rucker, Beasley, myself and a boy from another squadron Ernie Fischinger of Memphis), obtained a jeep and went to San Marino, the oldest and smallest republic in the world. It was a pleasant drive all the way, but particularly so after leaving the Rimini because from there on the country was new. The evenness of the coast gave way to rolling hills, well cultivated with wheat, crimson clover and fruit trees. The bright patches of blossoming clover stood out beautifully as one looked across the wide plain behind us. San Marino was founded in 1643 and has maintained its identity as a republic ever since. It has an area of 32 square miles and a population of 16,000. In the heart of the tiny country is Mount Titano which rises 2500 feet above the Adriatic which can be plainly seen in the distance.

*Beasley, Alvis A., Jr., Sgt, armament Fischinger, Ernest E., Cpl, engineering, 447th BS
Rucker, Elbert A., Sgt, armament*

The principal city, San Marino is located on the northwest side of the mount, so near its summit that it is not possible to drive a jeep beyond the gates to the city. Along the crest of the stone ridge that juts out rudely over the valley below are three ancient castles. We were surprised to find the people so friendly. Our first encounter with them was when we were taking some pictures of a cemetery. Two young beautiful girls came walking down the road and very amicably agreed to let us photograph them with Fischinger standing with his arms around them. We walked over the town visiting and shopping for an hour or so and found a restaurant where we had a good meal at black market prices. Most interesting of our contacts were with a French woman who spoke English. She had lived in New York and was married there. When she returned to Europe on a honeymoon trip she and her husband were interned in San Marino. She was very beautiful. The other was an Italian family of apparently very ample means. They were refugees to San Marino from Foggia where they fled the Allied bombings. Probably they were Fascists, but they treated us very nice. The daughter, 18 years old, was very fresh and buoyant. She had a lack of affectation that was extremely charming, a quality quite common among European girls.

At about five o'clock we reluctantly left San Marino and drove to Cesenatico, a small town some 30 miles up the coast from Rimini, to visit some friends of Beasley's. It was evident our path was through a one-time battlefield. All along the way were remains of battle equipment. Quite frequently we saw a great German Tiger tank and smaller British or American tanks in the position where they had destroyed one another in final close range battle. In one place three burnt out British tanks and seven graves told the grim story of a rough situation. Along the coast were great guns in turrets, apparently captured intact."

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The new chaplain, Capt. Martin, had a nice turnout at services today, and a goodly part of it was due to the nice impression he made with the men. He seems to have the natural knack of getting along with people. He sauntered into the Enlisted Men's mess-hall last night and walked over for his tray and sat down to enjoy his meal. It was done so unostentatiously and casually, that every GI in the place felt swell about it. The colonel suggested that everyone try to knock off on Sundays, so henceforth there will be no work on Sundays. Most of the fellows took off for Ancona, the symphony concert and a baseball game which we lost to the tune of 6-3. Volley-ball games seem to be the favorite evening pastime, with prearranged schedules between the squadrons and group personnel.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The training program was launched today with a batch of films about news digests and one titled, Combat America, featuring Clark Gable. There is considerable S-2 and S-3 activity, as the former will be doing the bulk of the teaching and the latter, the bulk of the planning. Everyone in the group will come under one or more phases of the program and the majority of personnel are in favor of it, as the time-lag is becoming more noticeable. No amount of training, however, will make up for the feeling of wanting to be home and stocking up on the luxuries were we want to call ordinary things, at one time. Some more of the fellows with 72 months' overseas were placed on rotation, so that proves that it does exist. The EM celebrated the club opening, with a dance and the usual number of signorini and their families. The Italian plumber hired to do odd jobs around the post, came with his wife, three children and a few friends. He was all decked out in the Italy-Esquire version of what the well-dressed plumber should wear on festive occasions and gave us all a 'bang' when he escorted his guests through both the Officers' and our club, showing them off. You could practically hear him telling them in Italian, 'this is my place of business'. The dance went off with the usual number of crashers outweighing the paying-member, but there were no Brawls.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Medics had a busy day dosing out 'headache and upset stomach' pills, which are two white ones and one black one every two hours. The mess-sergeant reported a small turnout for breakfast and evidently knew it beforehand, because all we had was French Toast ala Army-style and coffee. There is a big inspection this afternoon, by Gen. Chidlaw and some of his staff. A hot rumor has it that we will be leaving Italy in six weeks. The rumor will be checked upon arrival at the nearest point to New York, for verification. Headquarters personnel was restricted to the compound tonight, to make certain that everyone saw Combat America. The comment, as soon as 2nd Lieut. Gable appeared on the screen, was to the effect that it wouldn't be long before he made 1st Lieut. At the end of the picture, one wag intoned, 'I told you so'. The picture was well made, but the Technicolor was hard on the eyes, giving a blurred and distorting effect. The picture ended at 10:30 pm., and we largely adjourned to the club for imbibing purposes.

The program consisted of Tchaikovsky's music and I thoroughly enjoyed it. We were able to obtain a box for 85 lira each which placed us in an excellent spot. The audience consisted in the main of British men in uniform; Army, Navy or RAF which presented a splendidly colorful picture. Also there were members of our own forces, nurses, R. C. girls, Polish WACs and a fair number of Italian girls, mostly with soldier escort. The Palladium is a beautiful, large theater, but not very modern.

Beasley, Alvis A., Jr., Sgt, armament

At camp everything is reverting to the old training routine. Every day we have classes in the same work we have been doing for the past 2 1/2 years. As yet, however, things are not too bad. The latest rumor is that the personnel of our group, when it returns to the States, will be flown by way of Africa and South America. I should like that. Tomorrow, Beasley, Rucker, Tom Davies and I are leaving for Venice on pass. Last Sunday we had a Mother's Day service at the 30 Fighter Group. I am left in charge of the Group here."

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The thermometer gave good indications that it will be hot in this part of Italy this summer. The sun bounces right off the buff-colored buildings in the compound and there's no shade to speak of. The coolest places are inside the buildings and if this continues, we'll soon adopt the Italian custom of siestas. Due to the hot afternoon sun and the chilly evening air, there are a large number of head colds in the group. The training-film program continues unabated with four operators alternating on a day-long schedule. The nightly picture was "Mr. Winkle Goes to War". The fair-sized attendance it drew, was largely due to special services' billing the picture as "Mrs. Winkley". Everyone figured it was another of the "Mrs. Parkington" or "Mr. Skeffington" series. The Officers' Club had its grand opening last night and a carousing time was had by all. According to reports, there were some good-looking signorini there, and the truth of the matter is, the British officers rounded them up. Capt. Henry and Capt. Seawall, are on the rotation list. When those two leave, the group will part with two of its best-natured officers, especially Capt. H. , of "Steamboat Bill" fame. We went into khakis officially today and everybody looks "new".

HQ 321st BG War Diary: So far, the only group officer to show up this morning, is Maj. Goodell, who came in because of the training-film program. That indicates the officers' grand-opening was a success, so medics should have another peak day. Capt. Lind broke the stalemate by loping in at 0858 and now the others can enter safely. There is considerable activity at S-1 and they've borrowed all the help they could wangle from other sections. We had a live talent USO Show out at the base tonight. It was billed as "Show #495 Variety Review", and consisted of an emcee guitarist, a violinist with a good line, a magician and a shapely blonde who sang and just looked feminine. "We are waiting breakfast at 08:00 at the Transient Mess. Yesterday, Beasley, Rucker and I left camp about 04:00 on our way to Venice. We caught several rides, the first one with an Italian who worked with the British in managing refugee camps. He carried us as far as Forli and there we joined a truckload of Polish soldiers who were returning to their Company from a hospital in Bari. All had been wounded and as we passed through the country they pointed out at which farm house they had been knocked out in the battle for Bologna little more than a month ago. Some of them spoke German which they learned while fighting with the German army against the Russians. Afterward they were sent to Italy and came through the lines to join the Polish Army there a year and a half ago. They were very anxious to be of service to us and arranged for a ride on to this city after we left them. We got here about 20:00 hours and began looking for a place to stay. It was impossible to find a hotel so we stayed at the MP station. I had a good rest, being very tired. Yesterday morning, a huge flight of RAF Liberators and Lancaster bombers came to our base to pick up some British POWs. I had an interesting talk with one of them and ended up buying a pistol he had brought out of Austria. He was taken prisoner in Greece in '41. Their treatment had not been bad."

05/18/45: Venice

“We left Bologna shortly after 08:00 yesterday, but had some difficulty catching a ride. I was not especially impressed with Bologna. Its leaning towers (they really do lean), massive architecture, arcades over all the sidewalks are the distinctive features. It suffered little from the war. Our ride (first) was with a British Capt. in a jeep. He proved a most interesting and instructive companion. The road was excellent. We passed through beautiful fields and orchards. The most impressive sight however, were the long rows of Lombardi Poplars that bordered the farms. We passed endless convoys of German prisoners driving without escort toward the enclosures. They appeared dejected and beaten and I saw hardly a smile among them. Most of the trucks carried women also, which our friend explained was customary for the Germans. We came through the “Argenta Gap” where there had been much fighting. It was the last stronghold of German resistance to the 8th Army. Mine fields were still marked off by white tape. Just outside of Ferrara, we crossed the Po on a pontoon bridge. Just upstream was a Bailey bridge, the first I had seen. At Padova we stopped at NAFI for something to eat. Padova is a very nice city with trackless trolley buses, beautiful buildings and shops that sell pretty good ice cream. The people there are anxious to have the Americans in place of the British. We reached Venice about 15:00 hours and the first thing we did was catch a gondola from Piazzale Roma to St. Marco Square. We were amazed at the elaborate design of the buildings. Really, Venice is a wonder of the world. We had a very hard time finding a room, as the British have taken over everything. Our spirits were getting low when a soldier (Italian) and his girl asked me for a pack of cigarettes. Right away I perceived we might make a trade and he went right to work. Soon we had a place to sleep in a hotel restaurant café, on a mattress laid on the floor. We slept beautifully. 445th BS: War Diary of: Seegmiller, Barnard H., Sgt, armament:

05/19/45: Home again!

"We left the hotel in Venice quite early with the intention of coming home. I rather dreaded the long ride back to Falconara over country we had seen on our way up and so talked hard for trying to find a plane ride. We had seen planes flying over the city and suspected the location of an airport somewhere near. At the Hotel Luna (Officers' hotel) I was told by the clerk that the planes were landing at the civilian airdrome on Lido, a beach resort near Venice. I then converted the other boys to the idea of taking a gondola over there to see what could be done. We engaged a "barca" for 150 lira and it took about an hour to make the trip. On the Lido wharf we were confronted by a British MP and a huge "Off Limits" sign. He told us the only planes landing on Lido were L-4s etc., but consented to let me talk with an American Major who was standing by the rail a short distance away. The major said an Air Force rest camp was being established in a hotel down the way and probably we could find out what we wanted there. We soon learned that Lido is the finest and most beautiful spot in all the Venetian Isles. At the said hotel, I accosted a Captain who by an odd chance was from the 321st. We were in luck! He said a crew was leaving in a C-47 for Naples and he would get us on. More luck developed when the pilot said he was short on gas and would land at our base. We all piled on a motor launch and made for Piazzale Roma. I enjoyed the ride. We transferred to a jeep and drove to an airdrome about 30 miles north of Venice. This ride took us through the most beautiful country I have seen anywhere. Sycamores lined the broad highway and all along either side were marvelous mansions set deep in groves of black spruce and gardens. At the grass covered airdrome, where the only military planes were a squadron of Desert Airforce Spits, we met a plane load of Rank coming to the rest camp. From there we took off about eleven o'clock and shortly after twelve we were here. The previous day we spent sightseeing and shopping. We joined a British tour which took us to the Ducal Palace, the San Marco Cathedral, the Bell Tower, Bridge of Sighs, the dungeon where Lord Byron slept, the glass and lace factory. At the hotel I became engaged in a conversation in German with a Polish lady who was very sincere in her interest in the future of Poland. I became quite friendly with the people who stay at the hotel, and a very international group they were. I was not disappointed with Venice. It is all one expects and more. The nights and moon are perfect and never have I slept so wonderfully. Yes it is truly "sweet to dream in Venice." In the evening the crowds that gather at the square and the singing of the gondoliers is romantic."

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): No Entry

HQ 321st BG War Diary: With everybody off today, it really feels like Sunday. Those who didn't attend services, couldn't excuse it by saying they didn't know the day of the week, as a large white sign with bold black letters, was posted on the bulletin-board. It simply stated, "TODAY IS SUNDAY", and was very effective. The beach off Falconara seems to be the popular place these days, with the temperature as high as it has been. There is always vehicular traffic going back and forth. Some of the fellows don't own swimming trunks, so GI-shorts are serving the purpose. They do not dry as rapidly and don't have the opacity of the commercial brands, but ----. There is no movie on the base tonight and the theatre in Falconara is showing a revival, so Ancona should get the play tonight.

05/23/45: "Today was started off by showing us "Two Down and One to Go," an air force film. I failed to see the point that made it so necessary for everyone to see it. We already know more about what is to be done in the Pacific and what will be required of us, than the film taught. Its purpose was somewhat undermined, it seemed to me, by the fact that the war in Europe lasted longer than was expected at the time the film was prepared. Today I received a package from Sally which among other things contained a copy of The Prophet by Kahlil Gibran. It expressed a philosophy toward which I have definitely been inclined of late, namely one of great tolerance and freedom from form and ritual in Christian religion. Love of one's fellow man, rather than tithing, the word of wisdom, or anything of the lesser laws is the ultimate in Christianity, I intend to inspect this doctrine further. Perhaps the Church codes are justified by the fact that adherence to them leads the way to super things. Also in the package was a top and yo-yo which was intended for Paul on Corsica. I gave the top to the little boy of the lady who does my laundry. He was pleased beyond description. Several days ago I carried a spool of thread when I took my laundry and the lady was so happy about it she would not take any money for washing my clothes. They are a poor young couple who work hard on a farm the kind who are not responsible for Italy's part in the war."

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Summer is definitely here, as they've started screening-in the enlisted men's mess hall, and the Officers' Beach Club at Senigallia. The enlisted men are running around with feverish looks, as another dance is being held at the club tonight. The dance was socially, a success; but financially, a flop. The take at the bar was meager and more liquor was dished out than in the past, so the question arises, how honest are the Italian bar-keepers. Several of the fellows have gotten annoyed at the insolent attitude shown by some of the local hired help, and it forebodes no good for the former-fascists. The signorini brought along their families as usual, except for three gals who came in with the motor-pool boys. They could have passed for the Italian version of Sadie Thompson, without any make-up.

USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): No Entry

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The training program is going along at about 75% effort, with the other 25% in the planning stage. The group is now seeing the film Two Down and One To Go. It's a nicely arranged picturization of how redeployment will affect us. There was a noticeable groan when Gen. Arnold spoke that piece about there being only a very small percentage of Air Forces' personnel who will be released. Higher headquarters has ordered full-emphasis on the public-relations program and has authorized advance releases on every soldier returning home from this theatre. Quite a reversal of previous security measures! They also want each airman returning to the States, to have a history of the part, his group, his wing and his air force took in the Italian campaigns. The Red Cross put on a club mobile-show, which was quite good. The unit is known as Ted Seidel's show and consisted of a glib-tongued emcee with an off-color style, and attractive Red Cross worker from Foggia, know as Pat Madison, and a group of Italian musicians who were generally good. All in all, it was the best rounded-out show put on out here, with refreshment after it was over.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The weather looks bleak today and it might be due to the confirmation that our weather station detachment will be through here on June 1st. Rumor has it that they will proceed to Caserta and gather up all their units from their far-flung organization and then await orders. Some of the tower-men have been alerted for a shipment which may take them to Trinidad, B.W.I., to assist in handling the traffic resulting from shuttling planes back to the States. USAAF Chronology: MTO Tactical Operations (12th AF): The 7th Troop Carrier Squadron, 62nd Troop Carrier Group, moves from Tarquinia to Rosignano, Italy with C-47s.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Uh-huh, it happened! Today's announcement stated that hereafter there will be a weekly inspection of personnel and barracks every Saturday morning, followed by a formal review. The bulletin mentioned that it was only being done to expedite our lives when we return to 'garrison-soldiering' in the States. The report is out that all ratings are frozen for enlisted men, and that has boosted morale about as much as the cancellation of a furlough to a soldier going overseas. I&E (Instruction and Education) seems to be the all-important thing and classes are now scheduled to start in a few days. Some stiff-backs were reported today, which is an indication that the calisthenics program is working. PX beer-rations were increased from 6 cans per week to 7, which isn't bad at all.

I think we expected it. I asked the question, "Would anyone be separated from the Group to remain in the States?" Locke did not know, but I rather expect some of the older men will be. Knapp left for a trip to Paris, London and then the States, and will return here in about six weeks. That eliminated some of the speculation concerning the group, as we'll have to be on hand to welcome him back. We had a meeting on 'redeployment', which was explained to us by Lt. Col. Myers, Charles T. Brig Gen, 12th AF Commander

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Saturday morning and our first formal inspection. After the inspection, we had a dental inspection and then, the Big Parade. The review was enlivened by the 446th's 1st Sgt., who gave the unique and difficult command of "Left, Right-Face". The men carried on, completely ignoring the command and executing the proper movement. We had ice-cream at 4:00 p.m., and while it did taper off supper-appetites, it still was relished. Our scheduled Saturday night dance was postponed because the Mitchellaire had 'a paying job' and they wanted to liquidate all existing band debts before we pull out of the theatre. So, we settled for Monday night booking.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: The “TODAY IS SUNDAY” sign is hanging on the bulletin-board this morning. It is a nice day and eight C-47s came in about 7:00 a.m. That gave some of the fellows an idea of flying up and back to Udine, for the day, but they were disappointed as the planes didn't have a load and took off for their home-base after waiting around for three hours. It seems that someone goofed-off and the loads of gasoline they were supposed to haul, was taken away several days ago. Swimming in the Adriatic and a baseball game out at the service group, got the early morning attendance. “The White Cliffs of Dover”, is playing at Ancona and quite a few fellows went to see it and came back favorably impressed.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Pleasant weather again today, and a lecture on 'readjustment' by Captain Lind, who enlivened the discussion and gained the audience's attention, with a sudden entrance and medicine-man spiel of the cure-all for 'rotation blues'. Readjustments seem as limited for discussion, as redeployment, due to the lack of information on hand. The EM had their weekly dance tonight and the band was in fine fettle. Capt. Henry, wowed the audience with his capers and threw in an encore with a version of "Writing Love-Letters in the Sand". The dance itself, was a social success, with a slight tapering-off of relatives and food-baskets.

We are divided in groups. Each group works 1 day on rotation set up. Not bad at all. All this bunk about returning troops eating fresh fruits, vegetables, meats, milk, etc, is a lot of bunk. Same old chow. Chow lines are long and so is the washing lines for mess kits. Despite it all, every last guy is tingling with the thought of going home. Played pinochle and hearts. Drew PX rations. Cigarettes, candy, peanuts, etc. Always have to sweat out a line. The gun crews are still alerted as submarines are still about. Our ship makes 12 knots and will probably take 18 days to port. Commenced "The Apostle" by Sholem Asch. Rained the better portion of the day. Hold very stuffy. Put $40.00 in ship's safe. The enlisted men have the forward portion of the deck and the officers the aft. The crew has separate quarters. Their chow is excellent. Steaks, chops, etc. Retired 10:30PM. Feeling OK."

HQ 321st BG War Diary: A few hangovers marked the day. There was a smaller than usual turnout for calisthenics, as those interested in baseball were excused from drill. The base-theatre is showing "Kansas City Ditty" and the house empties just a shade slower than it fills. Most, leave at the first film-break, indicating good theatre manners. The mail situation has been poor for the entire Group headquarters. The I&E program got off to a start today and volley-ball was the main attraction of the evening.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Coffee and doughnuts at 10:00 a.m., was the only highlight of the day's social calendar. A half-holiday was ordered for this afternoon by the theatre commander, in honor of Memorial Day. Services were held at the military cemeteries and while many expressed the desire to pay their respects, no transportation was arranged, or was available. Olson and Johnson are in the movie "See My Lawyer" at the base-theatre, but it's another Class D picture as far as its appeal to GI's.

HQ 321st BG War Diary: Pay-call today at 1000 a.m. and all the April debts were either paid off or extended. To further enhance the importance of the day, rations were issued at 1:00 p.m., and it's still 7 cans of beer and 7 packages of cigarettes. There were no cokes in this week's rations, for some reason. Several of the original cadre went home today on permanent rotation and they might bump into some of the fellows who left on the last batch and still are hanging around Naples, waiting for shipping space. The I&E section arranged transportation to a concert by the Fano Symphony at Fano, Italy and from all reports, it was a very good program and nicely performed.

HEADQUARTERS TWELFTH AIR FORCE

GENERAL ORDERS) 26 Feb 1945
NUMBER 40) CITATION OF UNIT

Under the provisions of Circular 333, War Department, 1943, and Circular 89, North African Theatre of Operations, 10 July 1944, the 321st Bombardment Group (M) is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations on 18 August 1944.

On the third day of the invasion of Southern France, when aerial reconnaissance disclosed that the battleship Strasbourg, the cruiser La Galissonniere, a destroyer and a submarine had been moved to a new location in Toulon Harbor and placed in such a position as to constitute a serious threat to combined Allied operations in the Toulon area, the 321st Bombardment Group (M) was ordered to attack and neutralize the fire power of these heavy naval units at all costs. Despite the fact that under normal circumstances only high-altitude heavy bombardment aircraft are assigned to attack such heavily defended targets, the urgency of the order to remove this formidable threat to ground forces made it imperative that Corsica-based medium altitude precision bombers be assigned to the task. On 18 August 1944, overcoming weather conditions which caused other medium groups to turn back without completing their missions scheduled for the same area, the 321st Bombardment Group's thirty-six plane formation negotiated the long over-water route by dead-reckoning and accurately turned on the planned axis of attack from an imaginary initial point over the sea. Exhibiting utmost gallantry and determination in the face of extremely intense anti-aircraft fire from eighty-two known heavy guns, surrounding the harbor, which damaged twenty-seven bombers and wounded twelve personnel, the B25 crew men executed a precision bomb run at the vulnerable altitude of 13,000 feet. With the pilots courageously holding their aircraft on course through this terrific barrage, the bombardiers skillfully dropped a devastating pattern of bombs which sank the battleship, the cruiser, and the submarine; the destroyer having departed prior to the attack. With the threat of the warships' heavy guns removed, through an accomplishment unprecedented in a single attack by medium bombardment aircraft, Allied forces were able to plan and successfully execute operations in this area without interruption. The extraordinary heroism and proficiency demonstrated throughout the entire hazardous attack and the outstanding flying skill displayed on the return flight when thunderstorms and a low overcast forced the damaged bombers to land at scattered friendly fields, reflected highest credit upon the 321st Bombardment Group and the Military Service of the United States.
